

I believe that ownership of the current number of stations is enough. There are very few radio stations left in the city that have any sort of news, other than wire stories. Best I can tell "owning more" means the public "gets less".